

The relief from not having to answer the phone at dinner only to find a telemarketer is at the other end is immense. Before the "do not call" protection, the phone rang off the hook with telemarketers. My husband and I travel 55 and 45 miles respectively each way everyday to work which is tiring in itself and it is a relief to come home and know that my family and I will not be disturbed thru the evening with unwanted telemarketers calls. Please do not deprive my family of this peace. Thank you.
